MILG & HERGEN, CHAPEL/AUDITORIUM

Leaky faucets, broken doors, temperamental sound systems, clogged drains, sidewalks, roads, buildings . . . most machines have a greater probability of breaking down between midnight and 6:00 a.m. . . somehow everything keeps running . . . RALPH BOYD, the man in charge of our environment.

When the time came to decide on material for this year's ILIUM, we went looking through old yearbooks for ideas and inspiration.

We felt that the old books didn't hold any water.

After much intensive study and analysis, we decided to throw out everything and start afresh. Granted we had to keep some of the old ideas, such as printing the pages right side up, using names instead of student numbers, and writing in college English rather than pre-Roman French. However, we did come up with some new ideas and we hope you enjoy them. PLEASE read all the copy, look at every picture, and we'll see you on the last page.

Somewhere out in the middle of rural Hoosierland lies a little town called Upland. On the south side of town stands a group of buildings known as Taylor University. However, these buildings are nothing more than the place where the university exists, where the learning takes place. The REAL university is the people.

1st Half

First Week at Taylor

During the first week of school, freshmen and transfer students were bored, having only a few things to do: moving in, meeting new people, PROBE groups, testing, musical auditions, CLEP tests, waiting in long lines, testing, changing schedules, buying books, and more testing!!

For musical entertainment during the fall, the Student Union Board presented Chuck Girard, The Haines Brothers, The Imperials, Larnelle Harris, Under New Management, The Wright Brothers, and several other mini concerts.

Reflecting on campus attitudes, "a great diversity" can be seen, according to one student. Some students enjoyed the concerts while others thought "a night in the library was more exciting." Another student, when asked if the price and quality were reasonable, said, "I don't remember because I sat in the balcony and couldn't see them very well."

On the whole, students felt that SUB presented a wide variety of concerts and, for the most part, thought they did a good job of bringing some good groups to Taylor. After all, not everyone wants to come to Taylor to put on a concert!

The Cross Country team had another successful season winning the conference, placing second in the district, and finishing 19th in the nation. Steve Gradeless repeated as All-American and was the individual conference winner with a time of 25:52. Directing the team was George Glass whose leadership earned him the honor of conference "Coach of the Year."

"Success is built on using God-given talents. It doesn't matter if you win or lose. Winning is using those talents and always striving to perform at your best."

After a year of absence, chapels returned to Maytag, at least where Maytag used to be. It was now Milo A. Rediger Chaper/Auditorium. Three times a week we climbed the carpeted steps and sat down in the upholstered seats. Yes, the atmosphere had certainly changed, but the purpose was still the same: joining together to worship God.

The team finished 9-0; it was a satisfying year. The girls worked hard and were willing to strive for perfection. We tied for fifth place in the state, and freshman Cathy Donnica tied for third place in the number one singles. We were young; we were willing. God allowed us to use His given talents to be good.

THE MOUSETRAP

Little Theatre
October 20, 21, 22, + 23, 1976

Not enough drama at Taylor? Untrue during the Fall semester. "The Mousetrap," along with seven student directed one-act plays brought forth a commendable amount of top quality acting. The one-act plays provided an excellent chance for the aspiring part-time actors to make their stage debuts—some with success, some without.

ONE-ACT PLAYS

"Drama, more than anything else, makes me forget where I am. I soon forget my date sitting next to me as the actors draw me into the play. All too quickly, the play is over and I am forced back into reality along with two dishes of ice cream at the Union."

"My parents came to see what it was really like here. They stood in line, walked in the rain, met my friends, went to the movie, and saw me here in my second home. I think they went home more confident that I was getting along o.k., that I was happy, and that I was growing spiritually.

"We won the game and of course Dad, acting as a typical bleacher coach, said he knew we'd win all along. And Mom sure enough, she made my bed and cleaned my room. It was great to have them here".

FOOTBALL

The team finished 5-4; for some it was better than that, for some worse. There were great gains and good games; there were injuries and bad games; there was rain. But the overall philosophy was maintained—to glorify the Lord, and to be the best team possible with God's help.

The highlight of the year was defeating Hanover 13-12. It was their homecoming. Other victories were over Olivet, Defiance, Bluffton, and Earlham.

Steve Hall was named "Rookie of the Year", Ray Satterblom was most valuable on offense, and Jim McFarland was the most valuable defensive player. Jim and Gordon Pritz were both given All-American honors.

"Commitment to a sport such as football must be total. Sleeping, eating, living football for 10 weeks takes a lot of desire and discipline. Sometimes you get tired of it and dream of the end, but there is something about it—it gets in you—and when the end comes you start looking forward to early camp and the next season—if you have one.

HOMECOMING

The human chain, bonfire, a special chapel speaker, rain, many strange faces, many friends returning, long lines, rain, football game, parents, coronation, Athletic Hall of Fame, Larnell Harris, umbrellas, The Celebration, class reunions, volleyball, rain, church, HARMONY. The weekend went too fast.

S.U.B. - I.C.C.

The Student Union Board entertained us weekly with the news releases on the Dining Commons tables, movies, and the Union. They also provided banana splits for 25 cents, a bus to Scream in the Dark, the opportunity for costumes at Halloween, and various skiing and weekend trips. They kept us busy.

"During my time at Taylor I had many rewarding experiences, but S.U.B. had to be one of the best. The planning was tedious, but when everyong showed up enthusiastically for an event, it made it all worthwhile".

The Inter-class Council worked to keep the T.U. Barrel competition active and honest. They also brought us the tug-of-war and the sophomore class variety show, of which the Polish gym team was the hit.

FIELD HOCKEY

The team's main goal was to serve Christ. That can be hard to do with a small ball, a stick and a record of 4-12-1. Yet the girls showed others they had a unique program by planting the seed of Jesus Christ through song and good attitudes.

The girls were led by Coach Christine Lottes and throughout the year they increased in skill, cutting down in errors.

"Field Hockey gave me a chance to develop strong friendships with the players and the coach, and it gave me the chance to grow spiritually because I had to commit everything to the Lord."

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

"As a freshman I thought I was adjusting quite well to dorm life. Then one day an upperclassman told me I owed him $6.00 for an intramural shirt. Upon asking what intramurals were, I was informed of the facts of life. Intramurals are paramount here at Taylor. Devotion to the floor is proved in intramurals. I had to play guard against a senior tackle twice my size. For the first time in my life I ran two miles without stopping, just for one measly participation point. I found out the hard way that the foreign students rule the soccer field. I learned that volleyball was not just a women's intercollegiate sport. And nothing that I did for the wing was just a game or just for fun—it was for the points. It was for winning."

Ripped shorts . . . mud . . . late supper . . . six dollar shirts . . . Just call it intramurals.

VOLLEYBALL

The volleyball team finished 18-6, but the real winning came in the reflection of Taylor's standards, the execution of good skill, and the spiritual growth within the team. The year was highlighted by beating Goshen and IU's B-team.

"There was closeness among team members. Feelings were respected, looked at and analyzed. Everyone was sensitive to giving each person physical and emotional strength."

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

"Of course we will never be as good as the guys, but it is so much fun! I never understood why they rushed outside after class, or to the gym—just to throw some crazy ball around. Now I can see why. It is such a good break from studying."

"I had no idea what position I was playing, and I could never remember any of the rules, but we won anyway, and I carried the ball. Half the fun was watching the guys try to coach us. They got so tired of saying the same thing three times, but it was great! They were as excited as we were when we won."

Beginning brings questions: How will we ever get all those pieces learned? Will there be more part rehearsals? Will we ever get that note right? Can we please sit down?

Indeed, we may look and sound superior on stage, but much diligent work has been required. We experience criticism, extra rehearsals, little credit for loads of work. Yet along with these difficulties come self-satisfaction, accomplishment, greater glorification of the Lord, many smiles, and a successful performance.

What do I do in the library? I study !!

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

We share it in many ways and in many places—in small groups in the dorm with friends; in large groups in chapel, special services, and the banquet. The feeling at Christmas is different; we are more loving toward one another.

At Taylor, Christmas is the end of the semester; we can go home to our families and friends. But it is also the beginning, the basis of our faith, the reason we are here.

. . . and they came from the East and worshipped The King.

WRESTLING

Victory is a word of vague and misconstrued ideals; the sweet smell of victory dwindles quickly as you enter the upper room of the gymnasium. For victory means far more to Taylor wrestlers than an unbeaten 14-0 season with numerous outstanding performances. Perhaps this is best exemplified by Coach Tom Jarman himself, who strives not for winners but for champions, not for athletes but for committed men.

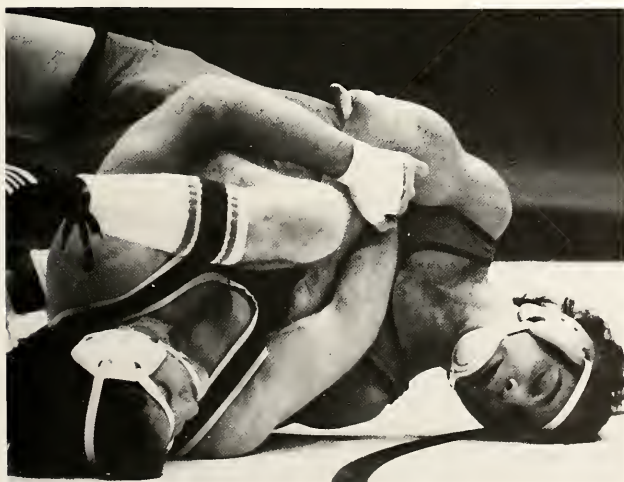

When, in the course of five grueling months, each man can claim the promises of Christ in patience, strength, endurance, and love, leaving an experience with Christian commitment that has no equal, then you are a champion. That is Taylor wrestling . . .

Galveston, Sabine Pass, New Orleans, Mobile, Pensacola, Tampa, Everglades City, Key Largo and all the places and people in between. From one grocery store to the next, we pedalled our sore bottoms 1000 miles around the Golden Coast. By the end of the trip, Golden had been changed to Frozen as we set a new record for the coldest weather Wheels has ever ridden in. On more than one morning we began riding with frost still on our bikes. And of course, the lectures . . . ZZZZZZZZ.

TROPICAL PARADISE

In years past, people always used to joke about the winter weather. Words like "arctic" and "tundra" were thrown around quite readily. This year all the jokes came to an end as "arctic" and "tundra" became realities in Upland. Frostbite found a few victims, but classes went on as usual even though the rest of the Midwest was frozen solid. Old Man Winter finally won the battle and gave us an extended Inter-term break.

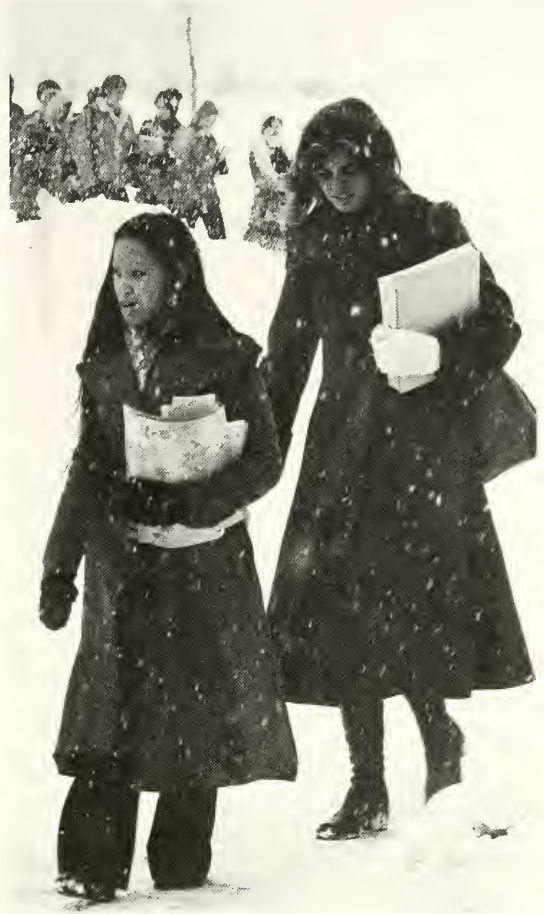

DUE TO THE WEATHER,
CLASSES WILL NOT

BASKETBALL

Our young team—10 players graduated from last year's team—surprised a lot of people by beginning the season with a 7-1 record. We experienced a mid-season slump, but regrouped and qualified for the District 21 play-offs. We beat Huntington and Grace, but a bigger, stronger Franklin team ended what had proved to be a successful season.

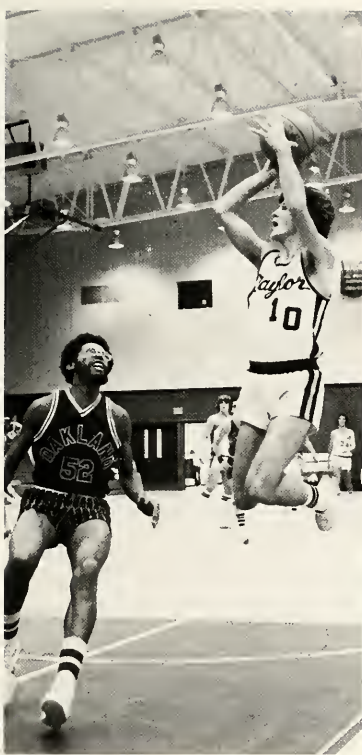

Taylor's team was blessed with much individual talent. Freshman guard, Greg Jones, made the All-Conference team and averaged 19.5 points per game. He scored more as a freshman (547) than anyone since 1948. Junior Phil Price, All-Conference and All-District, averaged 19 points a game. He was co-captain and most valuable player.

The experience of seniors Steve Smithley, Phil Renbarger, and Don Granitz will be missed, but much of the team will be returning. If things go as hoped, we could be on the road to a conference . . . district . . . national championship.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The Trojane basketball team finished this past season with a record of 5-5. We continued on to win all three games in District. Our most rewarding moment came, however, when we beat the reigning state champions of Goshen at the state finals. The last experience at the regionals in Columbus, Ohio, proved to be a time of improving techniques as well as an opportunity to grow as a Christian group. Thanks to the knowledge of our new coach, Miss Gorton, we had a great season and look forward to the blossoming of our potential next year.

With its rebirth second semester, the ECHO began to realize the potential heights of the journalistic art form. Excellency was not far from reach before the inevitable fall all artists must undergo at the end of any given term. Yes, in the still of the night, weeping may be heard, gnashing of teeth over what might have been. In the END, the truth shall be clear, and the plastic replicas shall melt with the heat of their own envy.

The Art Department has a threefold responsibility: to offer general art courses which will contribute to liberal arts students' broad general education, to give training to the student who has selected the teaching of art in the public schools as a career, and to train professional artists. The art program offers experiences dealing with a wide variety of ideas, principles, and materials which provide the student with a broad background in the disciplines of art that are primary for effective creative expression.

Biology

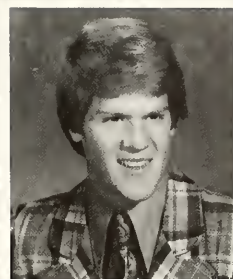

George Harrison

The Biology Department attempts to meet the academic needs of students whose interests vary from medicine to natural resources to teaching and other biological interests. All of these concerns are represented among the 1977 graduates. Several, during the course of their academic career, took advantage of the opportunity to engage in honors projects, while others benefited from practicum experiences. Some of these projects entailed considerable field work while others involved a physiological problem in the laboratory or learning about the real life experiences of the physician. Some students enjoyed the benefits (both academically and monetarily) of serving as laboratory assistants in the department. Many enjoyed the unique advantage of participating in the program of the Biology Field Station at AuSable Trails Camp. Friendships developed among students and professors, and other experiences associated with this program will not soon be forgotten.

The Department of Business Administration and Economics offers the opportunity for study in two separate, yet related academic areas. Courses in these areas combined with other liberal academic disciplines provide the student with the educational background necessary for entry into a chosen occupation in public or private enterprise as well as preparation for further graduate study.

The requirements for a chemistry major vary according to the goal of the student. A pre-med student is required to have a minimum of 32 hours of chemistry while a non pre-med must have 40 hours. Majors in chemistry have good opportunity for employment in the teaching and industrial fields. Technical trained students are less in number and generally in good demand. Our department helps in the training of other majors in physics, biology, pre-nursing, pre-medical technology, pre-dentistry and pharmacy. Our curriculum is quite stable. However, during inter-term, a new course was added called "Science Technology and Freedom." This course was quite different in the approach to science and its influence on society and culture.

Communication and Theatre Arts

Dale Jackson

The Communication and Theatre Arts Department believes that human communication, at its best, is a personal, supportive response to the uniqueness and worth of persons. The tendency in our society to view effective communication as a tool for manipulation or exploitation is seen as an erosion of the dignity and worth of persons and a violation of Christian ethics. Students are encouraged to approach communication processes and skills as agencies of growth and service rather than exploitation. We view theatre as one of man's most effective efforts to understand himself and his world. Our participation in this artistic effort increases our understanding of the human condition, expands our awareness of human needs, offers creative activity for the development of expressive gifts, and provides a means of articulating our Christian world and life view.

The Taylor University Education Department has a distinct opportunity in educating future teachers in that the total teacher preparation package—the knowledge, skills and value structure—is flexible in its application. More and more teacher graduates are completing the teacher education program with the intention of entering careers which are allied and/or related to education. Taylor prepares teachers for secondary (fourteen different subject areas), elementary, Christian day and nursery schools, day care centers, and schools serving the mentally retarded. The growth of Christian day schools in the United States is creating a need for teachers at all grade levels who can effectively integrate faith and learning. In response to this demand, we have designed a special series of courses and practical experiences for students desiring to teach in Christian schools. The fastest growing teacher education program at Taylor is in early childhood education. Another popular curriculum is the teaching endorsement in special education which prepares persons to work with mentally disadvantaged students.

Staffed by six full-time and one part-time professors, the Department of English offers a major for the B.A. and B.S. degrees in education, as well as a teaching minor. It serves the whole student body with courses in writing and literature. Popular among freshmen has been the interterm study of the theme Freedom in Literature. In January, two new courses were well received: The Journey and the Quest, and Minority Literature—Black Writers. Replacing journalism, a course in Mass Communications is serving both English and speech majors. English majors use their preparation in a variety of careers: law, medicine, library work, teaching, computer program planning, writing for periodicals, editing, homemaking, and the Christian ministry.

History

The History Department seeks to develop an understanding of human activity from ancient times to the present. It joins other departments to provide imaginative educational experiences with the Cincinnati Council on World Affairs, Wandering Wheels, and the Wheaton College/Taylor University ESPRIT summer program in France.

A new world! Another culture! Communication! Understanding! Learn about more of God's people: what they are like, what they say when they work, when they play, when they pray. Study of their language makes possible this vital aspect of anyone's preparation for working with people, any people, but particularly with those of different ethnic backgrounds. This study makes you more aware of your own nature: what you really are, how you are unique, and how you are like others.

The task and function of Taylor's Ancient Language Department is to bypass the maze of translations and interpretations by which the ancients have been transmitted to us, and to read their minds, if possible, in the languages of their initial expression. Happily, we are in possession of an excellent array of documents—a vast treasury of ancient writings; and from these the prophets and evangelists, philosophers and statesmen may speak to us, in their own tongues, the wonderful works of God. Presuming little more than a will to learn on the part of beginning students, the grammar of ancient language is rigorously wedded to concepts in philosophy, to movements in history, and to aspirations in religion. Beloved disciples and Roman poets hasten to share their secrets with diligent Taylor students.

Mathematics

In addition to studying mathematics in preparation for graduate school, teaching jobs, or careers in business, industry, or the government, students in the Math Department have participated in a College Mathematics contest, sponsored a High School Mathematics Field Day, participated in Tau Mu Alpha (Taylor Mathematics Association) and interacted informally with mathematics professors. Tmu activities included games, picnics, parties, student lectures, and a field trip to a mathematics conference at Cincinnati. Informal student-faculty activities have involved playing bridge, discussing athletics, and studying C.S. Lewis.

The music department offers the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees, both containing a good concentration of music theory, history and literature. Most of the music students at Taylor are presently interested in music education. Performance is, however, an important part of music and we are proud of the achievements of our students in this area.

Various opportunities exist for the music major as well as the non-major to participate in the musical organizations sponsored by the university. For the instrumentalist these include the Symphony Orchestra, Symphonic Band, Pep Band, and some Chamber Ensembles. The Oratorio Chorus, Taylor Chorale, and the Taylor Singers provide ensemble opportunities for those interested in vocal music. Basic theory, church piano and applied lessons are also favorites.

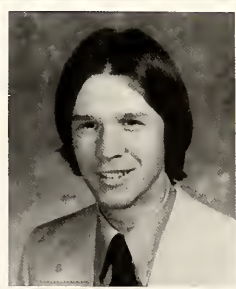

Highlights of the year's musical performances were the presentation of the musical "Brigadoon", the performance of the "Messiah" and Haydn's "Creation" with the Marion Philharmonic Orchestra, the Chorale Concerts and many fine faculty and student recitals. The recent arrival of the Baldwin Concert Organ in the Chapel Auditorium added an excellent dimension to the campus environment.

Religion

The Department of Religion and Philosophy offers major concentration in five specific areas: Bible Literature, Christian Education, Philosophy, Philosophy of Religion, and Religious Studies (emphasizing either Church history or missions). These programs will both prepare students to enter immediately into professional work upon graduation or will prepare them for continued study at the many graduate schools and professional schools which offer courses of study at an advanced level.

Physical Education

The department of Physical Education and Health for men and women seeks to provide broad programs for all students. Program offerings include activity courses meeting the general education requirements, courses leading to a teaching certification under the Bachelor of Science degree, courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree, and the intramural and intercollegiate athletic programs for men and women.

Physics

Roger Roth

Inquiring young people have found physics fascinating ever since Galileo's encounters with falling bodies at the Leaning Tower of Pisa, with the swinging chandelier in the cathedral and with the improvised telescope pointed towards Jupiter.

Physics is mainly a study of energy, motion and matter. These topics are intimately related to the national priorities dealing with sources of energy and the environmental impact of its use. At a time when the world is concerned with energy shortages and alternatives, physics serves as one of the most relevant subjects in developing new energy sources such as nuclear, solar, and geothermal power.

Taylor University is pleased to be one of 565 colleges and universities in this country where a physics major is available. Departmental facilities are excellent and individual attention is given to the interests of each major. The physics department provides instruction in physics, astronomy, physical science, and pre-engineering. Attractive professional employment opportunities are available in industry, government laboratories and research installations.

Psychology

Jan McCauley

The psychology department meets a wide variety of student interests and needs by not requiring a specific core of psychology courses for the major. Students design their own psychology major as preparation for graduate studies, or in conjunction with interests in the sciences, Christian education, systems, sociology, etc. The department also acquired additional experimental psychology research space in the former campus security office.

Are you interested in helping people? Then maybe this department is where you could be looking for a major. It is our goal to train people to enter the social work profession or some form of personnel work upon completion of college.

People are the most interesting of all God's creatures. Each one is so unique. Would you like to know more about people and what they do with and for one another? Sociology and social work is where it happens. If one is interested in learning about the family life of our culture, then sociology and social work is where it is.

Those who are planning to work with children and youth will find some real challenges in the wide variety of courses offered in this department. Sociology and social work help you participate in social change.

Hours and hours of practice! Hours and hours of work on costumes and sets! Hours and hours of patient coaching from Ollie Hubbard and Alex Montgomery! Somehow the weariness of it all faded during performance night. Suddenly it all became worthwhile, and then fun . . . and before long we were having a "riot". I guess it must be the joy of seeing the finished product of something one has worked on with friends.

SHOUTS OF JOY

Jesus came to the earth to freely give.
Bled and died with the will that we should live.
And with the faith of a child that
He'll give you,
You only have to begin to believe . .
Asking only that we love and follow
Him,
Christ can change our hearts and lives from deep within.
For all the pain and suffering He went through,
Was just the start of what He'll do for you.

Non-believer the answer now is here
Look to Jesus you'll find that He is near.
Then as a child in his care, you can praise Him
For it's Jesus alone who will always fulfill.
Christ gives the peace that will bring
shouts of joy
from the earth to the King
And through Jesus we can see, all the fresh reality of His Love.

(Jimmy Wheeler)

"Shouts of Joy" was the theme for Youth Conference '77, which took place on the weekend of March 18-20. Chairpersons Danny Wolgemuth and Kristine Hayes, assisted by the Youth Conference cabinet, planned a busy weekend for the conferees. Activities included movies, discussion groups, a county fair, talent competition, and music by the youth conference choir and band.

Pete Gillquist was the speaker for the weekend. His credits include a degree in journalism, study at Dallas Theological Seminary and Wheaton College, and work with Campus Crusade. The weekend was a good chance for fun, fellowship, and spiritual sharing for everyone who participated.

GUEST SPEAKERS

The Spring term saw an unusual amount of exceptional speakers at Taylor. We had our faith and intellect challenged as we listened to everything from Scripture to Watergate cover-ups. The voices of experience admonished and encouraged us, yet throughout most of it, the message remained the same: Jesus Christ is King!

DOCTOR FAUSTUS

I sat and watched in awe. The Drama Department had done it again. Another first class performance was happening, this one being "Dr. Faustus." As the lines were spoken, I found myself becoming as one with the characters. The tragedy of Faustus seemed so real . . . so ghastly. Even so, I found myself thinking about how I sometimes feel like Faustus. My lust for fame and fortune seeks to destroy my common sense and make me lash out for some quick-fire answer.

GOLF

The Golf team, coached by Don Odle, continued to dominate the greens and the fairways this year as they captured conference and district championships. Their good season enabled them to push their record at Walnut Creek past the 100-0 mark. Don Faimon, Terry Schaumleffel, and Keith Bowman led the team with all-conference honors.

BLACK HISTORY WEEK

"If there is no struggle, there is no progress. Those who profess to favor freedom, and yet depreciate agitation, are men who want crops without plowing the ground. They want rain without thunder and lightning. This struggle may be a moral one; or it may be a physical one; or it may be both moral and physical; but it must be a struggle."

SOFTBALL

What can you say about a record of 7-7? Not much, but then again, wins and losses are only the "grave" of sports. The real "meat" is the practice, concentration, and fellowship. We enjoyed all of these this year and ended the season with no hard feelings. Maybe next year . . .

WOMEN'S TRACK

Laps, laps, and more laps! I don't think I tried out for the right event. I think I should've been a sprinter. I keep trying to picture a horse in my mind, a horse just galloping effortlessly across the meadow. I wish that humans could move that easily. I guess I'll have to stick to laps on an asphalt track.

CHORALE TOUR

Chorale '77 was an experience to be remembered. From the first day of rehearsals, we worked to achieve a high level of musical excellence. Throughout the year all we heard was, "You're singing flat. Work for more line. Intonation!" By Spring we were ready to meet the challenge and outreach of tour. Meet the challenge we did, and we went far beyond. A spiritual brotherhood developed within the group and pulled us together as a community. Not only did we leave a part of us with the people for whom we sang, but also each of us left a part of ourselves with the other members of the Chorale.

BASEBALL

We practiced hard this year, but finished far from perfect. We did, however, end the season 16-8, the best at Taylor in recent years. We also had larger crowds. Agreed, we are far from perfect, but improvement is being made. All conference honors this year went to Dyrk Miller, Trevor Tipton, Jeff Putnam, Sam Eddy, and Roger Hansen.

Another conference championship. To the spectators, it is an accepted fact that we will win. It is a different story to us on the team. Every year it takes more practice and concentration than the year before. But if it wasn't a totally rewarding experience, we wouldn't be here. God has blessed us with strong legs and we enjoy using them. Yes, we won again, and Christ is winning within us. This year's conference honors went to Kim Redington, Dave Dodge, Larry Brown, Rick Cornfield, Ernie Bradley, Rick Lloyd, and Don Hobson.

I remember attending graduation as a freshman. It seemed so far away! Then suddenly I was graduating. It all went so fast, almost too fast. The worst part will be leaving my friends behind. I remember they told us in high school that graduation wasn't an end, it was a beginning. I guess it's the same situation now, just another beginning.

Once again the buildings are empty. The University has come and gone, teaching and helping people to grow. Parking lots, bike racks, dorm rooms . . . they're all empty. A mystic feeling pervades the vacant rooms and landscapes. The pit in my stomach grows larger as I struggle to accept the fact that it's over already, at least until next fall. Yes, the real University is the people!

FINIS

Like every other yearbook, this one took a lot of hard work to put together. I am eternally grateful to my staff for all their work, especially those people who saw their jobs through to the end. A special thanks goes to Sandy, Tom, and Sandy for pulling together our second deadline when I became ill just before Spring Break, and to Lavonna for her cheerful assistance.

More than thanks goes to DAN BOYD, photographer extraordinaire, who taught me everything I know about photography, and improved the photographic quality of the ILIUM 1000%.
